WILSON PLANS TO AVERT STRIKE OF RAILROAD MEN

(Associated Press by Fed. Wireless.)
CHICAGO, July 31.—In a final effort to prevent a railroad strike which will affect more than 50,000 men, and probably tie up most of the railroads of the east, President Wilson has summoned the general managers of the railroads affected, together with a committee of representative citizens and the federal mediators. They are to confer with him at the White House Sunday in the hope of finally reaching an agreement.

MOTHER! THE CHILD IS COSTIVE, BILIOUS

Don't hesitate! A laxative is necessary if tongue is coated, breath bad or stomach sour.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful today often saves a sick child tomorrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When crows, irritability, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, a red throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food, and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels, without griping, and you have a well-playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels, and sweeten the stomach, and they thereby save its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," and then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!—advertisement.

ELY'S LEGACIES TO CHARITIES CANCELLED

(By Latest Mail)
NEW YORK.—Bequests made to charitable institutions by former Mayor Smith Ely, amounting to $250,000, were declared by the appellate division of the supreme court to be void, because they were included in a codicil to his will executed only eight days before his death, in July, 1911.

The law requires that gifts to charitable institutions shall be made two months before the death of the benefactor.

The institutions affected and the amounts of their bequests are: Sea Drovers Home for Crippled Children, Coney Island, $50,000; New York City Mission and Tract Society, $100,000; New York Society for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor, $100,000.

Mr. Ely left an estate valued at $1,197,000. His family asked the appellate court for a construction of the will. Justice Clarke, in writing the opinion, said he regretted the court was compelled to rule against the three charities, especially the Sea Drovers home.

"My Tango Maid" was presented at the Bijou theater for the first time by the Juvenile Bostonians last night, and delighted a large audience.

There are a great many complimentary things that can be said of "My Tango Maid" and the happy little people who presented it so cleverly.

Throughout the entire musical comedy there is not one discolored line or situation; there is nothing about it that is not fresh and clean and utterly enjoyable.

Honolulu theatergoers are realizing more and more the quality of the Juvenile's productions. They have been playing here now for almost a month, and the little people have never once given one occasion to blush.

The cry for clean comedy was heard here with no mistakable emphasis when the Bijou was occupied, just before the arrival of the George Webb company, by a few exponents of gutter comedy and Bowery songs. Honoluluans held their noses, figuratively, and cried for clean entertainment—something they could see and enjoy with their children and come away unembarrassed.

And the Juvenile Bostonians are now answering their call! In this play when we are between the uncertain revelations of the so-called "problem play" and the pool room humor (?) of one of the growing stage cults, of which Monte Carter is a typical example, it is like running across some clear pool in the desert to attend a performance of the Bostonians.

They are giving us what we called for—and what all our best instincts demand. It is refreshing to watch the clever little people acting or in their songs and dances. Their performances are the direct antithesis of, say, Carter's.

The comic opera last night was representative of their performances. It was perhaps more clever than some of them, and there were probably more specialties introduced. They achieved a brilliant success in dancing the Argentine tango. However, it was representative of their work, and no one in the audience felt called upon to blush from the stinging of a rough joke.

"My Tango Maid" is as pretty and entertaining a comic opera as the company has presented, and of course it is newer in point of creation than their others. The name itself suggests this.

One of the delightful features of it was the Argentine tango, danced by Thom Hellen, Ina Mitchell, "Bee" Myling and "Billie" O'Neill. All the grace and whirling and twirling in the dance were seen just as New York saw when "My Tango Maid" was introduced there. "It was not like that in the olden days," to be sure; but so much the worse for the olden days!

Ina Mitchell appeared in a real you-can-prove-it-by-the-picture tango gown of varying shades of gold. To one unfamiliar with the recondite intricacies of feminine fashion, the gown would seem to be a cross between a Turkish costume and a French grande dame's robe de chambre. That may be away wrong; but the description is given advisedly.

All the members of the cast were excellent. The songs they sang were tuneful and pleasing and were responsible for much hearty applause.

Thom Hellen was charming—in an evening suit which she wore with the grace and ease of one to the manner born. Her songs were all delightful. Ina Mitchell as the Tango Maid was very pretty, her voice very sweet, her acting very clever. She sang three duets with Miss Hellen, and one of two solos. Dodie Canfield as Bottles was a hit. Bottles is a page at a bachelor club, where the first act takes place. In this role she sings several songs. They were all well done and heartily applauded. Little "Stubby" Myling was delightful. She did one or two singing and dancing specialties. And Halcyon Clarke as Willie Small made a new record for herself in a comedy role. One of her best songs was "I'm on My Way to Mandalay."

Patsie Henry made us laugh with her songs and acting. She appeared as the German theatrical manager who has a contract with the tango maid. She was—bully!

The other members of the cast did well.

The antiquity of toe dancing is only one of the things revealed by the Egyptian collection brought from Meero in the Sudan by Prof. John Barstang. Stones of astronomical buildings there show considerable knowledge of the heavens. On one stone was sketched an instrument for measuring angles and taking elevations, while another drawing tends to show that an effort was made to measure the circumference of the moon. Certain marks measuring the shadows of the sun indicate an effort to get the latitude and longitude of Meero.

"I told Uncle Simon that he was getting too old and feeble to attend to business," "Did he take it kindly?" "He threw me out of the office."

ELKS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION DISCUSS THE LIQUOR QUESTION

That the liquor question is the vital issue before the Elks' national body is the report coming from Denver, the scene of the 1914 convention.

According to the Denver Post "the Honolulu delegates say let well enough alone," but Refracting Grand Exalted Ruler Leach is quoted as declaring that in "dry" territory there should be no liquor in the Elks' clubhouse.

A headline in the Post says: "Liquor Question Threatening Sectional Division of the Elks." The story says:

"In battle array, shouting their shibboleth of 'no whisky for clubs in dry territory' delegates to the Elks' convention, from the east and north and middle west, are lined up against the solid south and west. Factional lines are closely drawn over the recommendation of retiring Grand Exalted Ruler Leach on liquor and the strong language he used.

"It is today looked upon as the vital issue before the Elks' national body. It has stirred up the state rights question and the question of personal liberty. If it is acted on at all—and it is expected to come up this afternoon—fear of a division in the order will bring about an amendment to the constitution to be voted on by subordinate lodge referendum.

"Leach wants the laws obeyed in dry territory. The southern and western delegates want to be let alone. They say they are satisfied with things as they are. Take away the present social features and the membership throughout the west and south will fade, they say, and the clubs will lose financially.

"Leach is expected to lead the forces seeking abolition of the Elks' bars where they are considered harmful. His successor, Raymond Benjamin, has not placed himself on record.

"I will have to wait to see what the grand lodge does," he said. "It isn't a question of what I am for or against. I will do what the grand lodge says I shall do."

"The eastern, northern and central delegates say the Elks ought to obey the laws like other organizations. Henry E. Gause, state senator from Kansas, takes a drink when he feels like it, but he is against the Elks' bar in dry territory. He sees discrimination in it against the fellow who is barred from carrying out his personal likes.
